DEMOLISH COLLEGE SITE PLEA

It's now a 'matter of urgency' says concerned councillor after more arson attacks at former campus

Report by Henry James

A FURTHER spate of suspected arson attacks at the former Westbank Campus, once used by West Lancashire College, has led to renewed calls for the building to be demolished as a 'matter of urgency'.

Last weekend firefighters were called to four suspected arsons at the Yewdale site, which is in the centre of Skelmersdale.

Following the latest incidents at the site, Lancashire Fire Brigade bosses hit out at the 'stupidity' of the yobs who are starting the fires, saying: "Whoever is responsible for these fires is endangering themselves and the lives of firefighters who are having to go into these buildings.

"We are having to use resources that could be needed elsewhere, particularly if there is another house fire in Skelmersdale."

Skelmersdale firefighters were first called to a small rubbish fire at the site on Friday, April 12 at 7.05pm, which is thought to have been started deliberately.

Then, 20 minutes later, they were called back to pallets of wood, which were believed to have been set on fire deliberately, inside a derelict building. The fire service were there for 30 minutes. The following day, at 4.50pm, fire crews attended yet again to a fire at the premises. They were at the incident for one hour and 40 minutes. Firefighters from Skelmersdale, Ormskirk, Warrington and Wigan attended the scene.

Their fourth call out at the site was on Sunday, April 14 at 7.18pm to a blaze on the third floor of the derelict building. Again, this was believed to have been started deliberately.

Predatory paedophile is jailed for 11 years

Man, 28, incited children to perform sexual acts online

A 28-YEAR-OLD man from Skelmersdale has been jailed for 11 years after pleading guilty to inciting children to perform sexual acts online.

By our Court Reporter

Mark Hughes, of Windrows, was sentenced at Preston Crown Court on Thursday, April 11.

Officers had initially executed a warrant at Hughes' address in September last year after information about suspected online sexual communication offences was provided by Merseyside Police.

Hughes was arrested but later released while officers conducted further enquiries.

Then following investigations, including inspecting his mobile phone and laptop, police found Hughes had been contacting a number of children using the live broadcasting website, LiveMe.

He encouraged some of his victims to expose themselves, committing sexualised acts while he covertly recorded the live broadcasts.

Similar offences were found to have been committed on the mobile phone application, SnapChat, with Hughes using a recording application to save pictures and videos.

One of his 10 victims - all aged between six and 15 years - had learning difficulties, while as many as 60 girls are believed to have been contacted online by Hughes.

In January he was re-arrested and charged with a number of offences.

Hughes admitted nine counts of inciting a child to engage in sexual activity and six of making indecent images.

He was sentenced to 11 years in prison with an extended three-year licence. Hughes was also handed a lifetime Sexual Harm Prevention Order and must sign the sex offenders register.

Detective Sergeant Claudio Fardella, of Lancashire Police's Online Child Abuse Investigation Team (OCAIT), said: "Mark Hughes is a predatory paedophile who during a three-year period offended against children all over the world using chat and live streaming sites.

"Hughes would incite his victims to carry out sexual acts online, recording the live streams to satisfy his own depraved desires.

"He sent sickening messages to a number of children and is believed to have contacted many more.

"This investigation highlights the dangers of these sites which are used by predatory offenders to seek out children to offend against.

"Hughes is clearly a dangerous individual and his sentence reflects the gravity of his actions. I must thank the investigating officers, Detective Constables Kate Finch and Joshua Gardner, as well as other members of the OCAIT team, for their professionalism in handling a difficult and at times disturbing investigation.

"We would encourage anyone who has been the victim of a sexual offence to come forward and report it to us, safe in the knowledge we take all reports seriously and ensure victims are treated sensitively and professionally at all times."

Pam Johal for the Crown Prosecution Service, said: "Mark Hughes used public chat forums and social media sites under various different usernames to contact over 60 young girls and manipulated some of them into performing degrading acts to camera.

"We worked closely with the police building a strong case which included digital evidence showing that the abuse was live-streamed, not just to the defendant but to other like-minded individuals. The police used his own specialised software to trace the victims from the recordings he made of the abuse.

"When faced with the overwhelming evidence against him, he was left with no other option than to plead guilty to the offences he faced.

"This case highlights that if children have access to live-streaming, some social media providers, based on the evidence of this case, have the responsibility to do more to help regulate and censor who is contacting them.

"Our thoughts are with the young victims and their families. I hope that as their abuser begins this prison sentence they can begin to move on with their lives."

Mia - 'fitting ambassador for Citizen Award'

"She has helped the younger people attending to fill in consent forms, so that they can participate in activities and helped at Skelmersdale Veterans' Association on open days. Mia has also taken leaflets around the estates, letting residents know what events are happening.

"She has also given support to her granddad, helping collect for the Royal British Legion's poppy appeal. This year the Skelmersdale Veterans' Association collected £15,900 at ASDA and the Concourse.

"Mia has also supported the veterans and was involved in the presentation of a wheelchair to a veteran.

"Mia deserves recognition for all her hard work with organisations like SAY and Skelmersdale Veterans' Association."

The youngster has completed more than 150 hours volunteering in the community over the last year. She has helped to get other young people engaged and involved in the community.

"Many people on the estate look down on the young people, but this girl has helped reduce anti-social behaviour and the crime on the estates by leading by example. She has gained skills in communication and leadership and is a positive role model to others.

"It is a delight to work and know this young person, who is a fitting ambassador for the Citizen Award for Skelmersdale and West Lancashire."

West Lancs is named as housing 'hotspot' for 18 to 34-year-olds

Property company survey finds borough is fifth in list of locations experiencing greatest influx of young adults

Report by Henry James

WEST Lancashire has been named the UK's fifth best housing 'hotspot' for 18 to 34-year-olds in a national survey.

The research, conducted by regulated property buying company, Good Move, used data from the Office for National Statistics to reveal the locations which are experiencing the greatest influx of young adults.

West Lancashire came fifth, with 18 to 34-year-olds representing 21.60% of the borough's population - a 2.04% increase from 2012.

Good Move said its popularity can be attributed to its low average house price of around £184,000 and average monthly rental prices of £580. The survey also found West Lancs has good broadband speeds and 4G coverage making it an attractive option for young professionals.

A low unemployment rate in the borough of 4.7% was also said to add to its appeal, although this is slightly higher than the national average of 3.93%.

The findings have been visualised in Good Move's online, interactive tool First Home Hot Spots, which helps young people and first-time buyers see the locations which are growing in popularity with their generation.

This shows where populations of 18 to 34-year-olds are increasing, alongside other useful statistics, such as average house prices, the number of jobs available and average salary. The research also gives an indication of where these 18 to 34-year-olds are moving from, by identifying the locations which are seeing a decrease in their young population.

West Lancashire rated the UK's fifth best housing 'hotspot' for 18-34-year-olds in property company survey.

London is losing its young adults at the greatest rate. Out of the top 10 local authorities which are seeing their percentage of 18 to 34-year-olds decline the most, nine are boroughs in the capital and the other (Slough) is just 20 miles away.

Just what the doctor ordered! Community groups play new role in improving health

Report by Henry James

SEWING, working out at the gym and singing are just some of the ways that Skelmersdale residents are boosting their health and wellbeing, thanks to a successful new health scheme.

Other than prescribing medicine, whenever possible GPs have started referring to a team of social prescribers who are equipped to help individuals improve their health using non-medical solutions.

There are a range of ways people can be supported following on from an initial confidential one-to-one meeting to understand current issues the person is facing.

So far, since the initiative launched in April 2018, the service has identified several ways to support people to feel better - such as through access to a gym, knitting groups, lunch clubs, bereavement groups, art classes, pottery, gardening and walking clubs.

Around 150 people have been supported so far, embracing changes to their lives in different ways.

Kathryn Kavanagh, health inequalities lead at NHS West Lancashire Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) said: "We are seeing people coming through to social prescribing with varying needs but largely these are just people who are facing challenges with their mental health and feeling low, for example whether that is through them having become isolated, suffering with anxiety or general loneliness.

"Often what they need is for us to strengthen their social connections in some way. We are blessed in Skelmersdale with a range of support groups and activity clubs that cater for all interests, so we can signpost to something suited for them. This pilot is really making a real difference so far, and as such we hope to roll it out to the whole of West Lancashire in future."

Health inequalities lead at NHS West Lancashire Clinical Commissioning Group, Kathryn Kavanagh.

The team is so reactive that social media is even playing a part. This winter, a Manchester hospital consultant reached out on Twitter to identify some support for a patient with loneliness.

The team jumped into action and managed to speak directly to the patient and refer them into the service. They quickly identified there were several immediate needs they could support the individual with, such as issuing a foodbank voucher and helping with housing-related issues.

Social prescribing support worker, Nicci Sutton-Kelsall, said: "What is great about social prescribing is it is not off-the-shelf and we tailor everything around what the individual needs."

Paul, 47 from Birch Green in Skelmersdale is someone who has been receiving support from the service. He said: "I have cerebral palsy and use crutches so I am limited to what I can do day to day. I'm lucky to have a good support network of friends and family but it's easy to live in my own bubble, and I wanted to lift my mood and leave the house more.

"Since being with the social prescribing service, I've been to some weight management sessions. I am a diabetic that I control by diet and I'm a 'bang it in the microwave' kind of cook, so I am also signed up to work with the Junk Food Café and get some cooking tips from them, so I eat healthier.

"I have arthritis and painful shoulders from my crutches and this gets worse if I sit still a lot, so I am also having some gym sessions to help me be more active.

"If anyone is feeling lonely or anxious, or whatever their issue is, they should get in touch with the service. You won't change overnight but if you don't try, you'll be stuck in that same situation in future but probably with worse symptoms."

If you're registered with a Skelmersdale-based GP practice and think you could benefit from some social prescribing, contact the team on 01695 733 737.

Knife-wielding man steals cash from corner shop

A MAN armed with a large knife entered the Lite Express shop on Fairstead in Skelmersdale and stole cash.

Police received a report that at 9.12am on Saturday, April 13 a man had entered the premises.

The suspect then forced his way into the back of the shop and made his way into the office causing damage.

The offender is described as white, tall, wearing high visibility work trousers.

Lancashire Police believe an unknown amount of cash was stolen.

Detective Constable Kate Molloy, of South CID, said: "This threatening behaviour was carried out in daylight on a Saturday morning at a shop many local people use.

"Luckily no one was injured, however the offender was carrying a weapon which could have caused significant harm."

Anyone with information is asked to contact DC Kate Molloy at Skelmersdale CID on 01695 466179 or call independent charity Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111, quoting log 373 of 13th April 2019.

Vandals are attacking former Westbank Campus site at will, fumes councillor

The fire service said that the causes of the blazes are under investigation.

Skelmersdale North Councillor Neil Furey commented: "Yet again the former Westbank Campus site has come under attack with more fires.

"This site remains insecure with vandals being able to attack the building at will. The site is very dangerous and firefighters are having to attend regularly and are risking their own lives in extinguishing fires in these buildings.

"This derelict site remains a terrible eyesore for the town and I will once again be calling on NCG Group to demolish these buildings as a matter of urgency.

"Recently West Lancashire Borough Council refused to issue an untidy site notice regarding these buildings. Given these recent fires and the likelihood of further incidents I will be calling on the Council to reconsider this matter and commence enforcement action without further delay."

In February firefighters were called out to deal with two suspected cases of arson at the same site. There was a similar problem last November.

The Champion believes the buildings are still owned by West Lancashire College and has approached them for comment.

A borough council spokesman commented: "The council has sent officers to the site to assess the security of the site and buildings. As a result officers will be contacting the landowner with a view to arranging any necessary works to be carried out.

"A further site inspection will also be undertaken to assess whether as a result of the most recent fire on the site the buildings or any part of the buildings can be classed under the Building Act 1984 as dangerous.

If that is the case then the site owner will be required to undertake remedial work.

"Consideration will also be given as to whether the condition of the site and the buildings thereon is such that the issue of an Untidy Site Notice can be justified.

"An Untidy Site Notice can secure improvements to the appearance of a site, but would not secure the demolition of the buildings."

Park Pool in Ormskirk, and inset: a cockroach

Swimmer's shock at latest 'cockroach infestation' at pool

A SWIMMING pool and gym in Ormskirk is to be sprayed with insecticide for the third time in a month due to an infestation of cockroaches.

The grim admission from the manager of the council owned Park Pool leisure facility comes after a visitor said on social media that he was shocked to see them crawling "all over the building".

However, the swimming pool at Nye Bevan Sports Centre, in Skelmersdale, has not been affected by the insect invasion.

Posting on an Ormskirk community forum on Saturday, April 13, the angry swimmer said: "I visited Park Pool recently, shocked to see the amount of cockroaches walking around in there! All around the viewing area, vending machines, changing rooms and toilet areas!

"Don't think we'll be back there anytime soon which is a shame as we've always swam there since we were kids."

His message attracted more than 100 comments from social media users.

Mark Snaylam, Contract Manager for West Lancashire Community Leisure Trust, which manages Park Pool on behalf of West Lancs council, said: "Cockroaches can be attracted to wet and warm places, like swimming pools, but we would like to reassure all customers that we are doing everything in our power to control this situation at Park Pool.

"Our premises were sprayed by a professional pest controller two weeks ago, then re-sprayed on April 11.

"We generally operate using a 14-week spray cycle, but to address this issue we have now had two treatments carried out in the past 14 days, with another spray scheduled in another two weeks' time."

It's our Anniversary

In a recent return visit to Elm House, Mayor Delaney explained why Elm House is such a popular choice

Why is Elm House so important in the community?

The importance of Elm House is enormous; firstly it shows that this part of West Lancashire has exceedingly high standards of care for those who need it the most. Every time I visit Elm House I am astounded by the way it combines modern technology with a traditional homely feel for the residents. It has provided many local people with a job that they enjoy and can feel proud of.

Why should people choose Elm House?

Sometimes when you visit a residential home you get a feeling that all is good and that is how Elm House feels to me. The atmosphere is just so warm and caring, the residents and the staff are always smiling and relaxed. I can't remember ever visiting anywhere where the people are just so friendly and helpful. Residents and their families have told me that they wish they had known about Elm House earlier because it has given them all a new lease of life.

What would you say to anyone thinking of choosing Elm House to live in?

Moving to a residential care facility is a big choice and it needs to be the right one. From all I have seen in my time spent at Elm House it ticks all the boxes about why people should feel comfortable about residential care. I have spoken to many residents and I know that prior to residential care they may worry about all kinds of things – will they be lonely? Will they have privacy? Will they be safe? Elm House does not have a "one size fits all" approach to care – the staff take the time to find out exactly what works for each and every resident and then go out of their way to provide it.

Testimonials from the Families

"To Angela, Alison and all the fantastic team in Elm House, I would not be here without you!"

"Thank you so much for your help, generosity and kindness in making my Auntie so welcome."

"It gives us great peace of mind to know we can leave Dad in your care and he will be looked after in a safe, kind and caring environment."

Star students tie the knot at venue where their own love story blossomed

Report by Henry James

THE Artz Centre in Skelmersdale is usually known for its vibrant, community-led performing arts programme but it celebrated a special event of a different kind when it played host to the very first 'Artz Wedding.'

The centre in Birch Green Road was the chosen venue for the marriage of two former Artz students, Liam Hogarth and Megan Sumner.

The young couple met at the Artz Centre during spring 2016, while rehearsing for an Artz Academy production of West Side Story and their own romance blossomed as they performed in a total of more than 50 productions between them.

During their time as students both Liam and Megan were awarded the much sought-after accolade of 'Artz Student of the Year' and throughout their time in the academy as well as becoming brilliant performers they also grew to be respected role models among younger students.

Following their engagement in September 2017 their thoughts turned to wedding plans and Artz Centre director, Mark Ashton was thrilled when the couple announced their wish to tie the knot at the centre.

And on the joyous 'big day' itself, enjoyed by close family and friends, Mark made a moving speech in which he told of how the Artz Centre had witnessed the beginning of Megan and Liam's journey together and therefore it was particularly fitting that what had become virtually a "second home" to the couple should host their special day.

The Artz Team said: "We would like to once again, extend every happiness to Liam and Megan as they begin their next chapter as Mr and Mrs Hogarth."

Mum tackles half-marathon in aid of Blossom's Legacy

A FAMILY friend is gearing up to tackle the Liverpool Rock 'N' Roll Half-Marathon on Sunday, May 26 in memory of tragic Skelmersdale toddler Blossom Kelly.

Clare Coogan will be taking on the 13-mile challenge to raise funds for the charity set up in Blossom's name after the four-year-old died after drowning in a swimming pool during a family holiday in Girona, Spain in 2016.

A friend of Blossom's aunt, Clare from Crosby has done 10k runs before but this will be her first attempt at a half-marathon in the popular event which sees competitors race through the city following in the footsteps of the Beatles.

Devoted

The mum-of-two, who hopes to raise at least £500 in sponsorship, said: "I am no Mo Farrah but I am hoping to finish in under two hours and hopefully raise a good sum in aid of Blossom's Legacy, a charity devoted to raising funds to ensure that young children are taught basic water safety.

"Blossom's was such a tragic story. My friend was there in Spain and gave her CPR before Blossom was airlifted to hospital in Barcelona."

Clare has set up a JustGiving page to raise funds and is already nearly halfway to her target.

Clare Coogan, pictured with sons Joseph and James, is aiming to raise at least £500 for Blossom's Legacy by completing the Liverpool Rock 'N' Roll Half-Marathon in under two hours.

Anyone wishing to sponsor Clare can do so by going to https://www.justgiving.com/crowdfunding/blossomslegacy.

Cooper defends her voting record on Brexit

ROSIE Cooper has defended her voting record on Brexit in Parliament in the face of criticism by constituents on both sides of the leave or remain debate.

During the ongoing chaos over when or even if the UK will leave the European Union the Champion has received a number of letters on the MP's Brexit position.

And while some of those in the borough among the majority 55.3% who voted to leave, have accused the MP of going against the wishes of the people; others who favour remaining have criticised her decision not to back a second referendum on the subject.

However, Ms Cooper, who defied the Labour leadership and voted for the Prime Minister's withdrawal agreement at the third time of asking, claims she is committed to delivering the referendum wishes of the people of West Lancs.

The MP told the Champion:

Report by Kenny Parker

"Although a remainer, my position on Brexit has been consistent and remains unchanged. Quite simply the will of the people and the outcome of the referendum should be respected. In West Lancashire a majority of people, 55%, voted to leave the EU.

"My vote for the legally-binding Withdrawal Agreement (divorce settlement) was me honouring that commitment. It confirmed we would leave, that the EU would agree an extension until May 22 and that the UK would not need to participate in European elections.

"We now face the very real danger of a very long delay.

"The other part of the deal, the Political Declaration (which has no legal force) is a discussion document covering the future relationship - trade, customs, financial services and more. An improved version with legal commitments on workers' rights and environmental standards was put forward on March 12.

"Throughout this process I've hoped for a better deal but also believe that a No Deal Brexit should be avoided at all costs.

"Nor do I believe another referendum should be held as the people have already spoken when they cast their vote in the 2016 referendum."

The MP insisted she would continue to represent the interests of her West Lancashire constituents but added: "Every day I am receiving hundreds of pieces of correspondence on this issue, covering the full spectrum of views on Brexit, from a no-deal exit to remaining in the EU.

"I only have a single vote and cannot possibly satisfy all the competing demands on which way to vote, leaving other people disappointed."

Beacon Seniors golf team can defend their title after suspension is lifted

Landfill issues at Up Holland course resolved

A DECISION to suspend the Beacon Seniors golf team from the South West Lancs Seniors League because of the ongoing landfill situation at their home course has been overturned, with the help of West Lancs MP Rosie Cooper.

Ms Cooper has said she has taken a keen interest in developments at the Beacon Park Golf Club in Up Holland, following, "countless complaints over the poor state of the course since Serco took over and landfill works began."

Despite all these challenges, the Beacon Seniors overcame the odds to go on to win the South West Lancs Seniors League last year.

But it looked like they were not going to get the chance to defend their title when the league decided to suspend them because of the ongoing work at the course.

That decision prompted an angry response and Rosie Cooper met with the golfers on site to discuss their concerns, as well as meeting with Serco and West Lancashire Borough Council directors to try to find a solution. Now, following a recent meeting of the league, at which Serco attended to present their work re-measuring the course and maintaining an 18-hole facility that meets Council of National Golf Unions regulations complete with new stroke index and score cards, the Beacon Park Seniors have been re-admitted to compete in this year's competition.

Report by Henry James

Rosie Cooper said: "It has been a long and stressful 12 months for golfers and club members which has required negotiating with the borough council and Serco to ensure the winners were able to defend their title and West Lancashire golfers could enjoy a competition-standard course.

"I am pleased for the captain, Mike Collins and his fellow golfers that they can now look forward to a summer of both competition and leisure golfing."

Liverpool fans created a mural before their match against Chelsea on Sunday at Anfield

Hillsborough victims remembered on 30th anniversary of tragedy

WEST Lancashire marked the 30th anniversary of the Hillsborough disaster on Monday, April 15.

A minute's silence was observed at 3.06pm, which was the time the 1989 FA Cup semi-final between Liverpool and Nottingham Forest was stopped.

Locals remembered the 96 Liverpool fans who were killed on the day and a lantern for each life lost was lit on the steps of St George's Hall in tribute to those who died.

Liverpool Football Club's first team squad paid its respects at the Hillsborough memorial at Anfield stadium by placing a wreath.

A memorial service was held at Liverpool Cathedral, while The Kop stand at Anfield was open in the afternoon for people who wanted to sit and reflect.

A day earlier on Sunday, April 14, a mural was created by Liverpool fans on The Kop and Sir Kenny Dalglish Stand before their Premier League clash with Chelsea.

Pioneering nursing students nominated for national awards

THREE Edge Hill Univesity nursing students have been recognised for their pioneering work by receiving two national award nominations.

Alice Waddington, Emily Kavanagh and Eve Hesketh are shortlisted for the Mary Seacole prize for Outstanding Contribution to Diversity and Inclusion and for the Student Innovation in Practice accolade in the 2019 Student Nursing Times Awards.

Nominated for their work in raising awareness for people with learning disabilities, the second award has received widespread attention for the creation of Makaton healthcare cards. Makaton is a language programme, using signs and symbols, designed to provide a means of communication to individuals who can't communicate efficiently by speaking.

"We were nominated by Amanda Glennon, a Makaton tutor whose daughter, Alice, is a Makaton user", said Eve, whose background is in support work for adults with learning disabilities. "The Makaton Charity made them available and they are now their most downloaded resource."

The team have known each other since their course began three years ago. "We became close during our first field-specific module" said Emily, a former teaching assistant in a special needs school.

Alice Waddington, a psychology undergraduate and former support worker for adults with learning disabilities who plans to pursue community nursing on a learning disability team, said: "Meeting Amanda in 2017 and listening to Alice's story highlighted that something further needed to be done to promote Makaton within healthcare."

Their involvement with Learning Disability Awareness week in June 2018 saw the launch of the cards on the Makaton website. "We were invited to a university conference to teach people how to sign phrases in Makaton. We also uploaded a video of us and other students signing, 'This is me' in Makaton, which reached 50,000 views on Facebook."

Their event, called 'Come and discover, think outside the box' saw students and lecturers attend workshops around sensory awareness, communication and how to make reasonable adjustments. They then signed up students to become learning disability student champions and have trained 90 from across the region, with plans to share with other universities.

Alice Waddington, Eve Hesketh and Emily Kavanagh who have received two nominations at the 2019 Student Nursing Times Awards.

And their involvement with 13-year-old Alice Glennon has extended beyond that initial conference. "She has attended many healthcare appointments and not one professional has been able to communicate with her through Makaton", added Alice. "This is when we were inspired to create the cards."

"The fact Alice's pediatrician has pledged to learn using the cards will mean he'll be the first healthcare professional to have communicated with her using Makaton, not through her mum," added Emily and Eve, who are due to take up positions at Alder Hey and Royal Manchester Children's hospitals, respectively.

The winners of the awards will be announced at the Grosvenor House Hotel in London on April 26.

Councils defend huge pay packets for senior staff

'Town Hall Rich List' reveals a former director was given payout of nearly £340,000 - and that was after taxes went up again for residents!

Report by Kenny Parker

Dave Tilleray

COUNCIL chiefs have defended bumper pay packets for senior staff - despite tax rises for residents.

The annual Town Hall Rich List report from the Taxpayers' Alliance revealed that 13 senior employees at Lancashire County Council and two from West Lancs Borough Council were remunerated more than £100,000 in 2017/18.

Remuneration includes salary, commission, compensation, and wages.

The Director of Leisure and Wellbeing at West Lancs council, Dave Tilleray, was revealed as being remunerated a whopping £337,351 - the ninth highest payout in the UK.

In 2017/18 the borough council announced it needed to make £1million in savings due to Government cuts and council tax was hiked in West Lancs by just under 3.5%. Council tax has risen by nearly 5% this year.

The borough council has said, however, that Mr Tilleray was made redundant that year to streamline finances and that his pay-out was made up of salary, pension contributions, and compensation,

Pay for staff at Lancashire County Council were: J Turton Chief Executive £268,776; Deputy Chief Executive £230,575; Director Governance, Finance and Public Services £199,705; Director of Development and Corporate Services £157,813; Director of Children's Services £130,431; Corporate Director Operations and Delivery £118,292; Director of Education, Schools and Care £110,004 ; Director Public Health and Wellbeing £105,361; and Director of Adult Services £102,266.

The figures released regarding West Lancs borough council show that Chief executive Kim Webber was paid £125,594, including a salary of £108,539 and pension contributions of £17,055 while, as stated above, the Director of Leisure and Wellbeing was renumbered £337,351.

John O'Connell, chief executive of the TaxPayers' Alliance, said: "Hard pressed families in Lancashire will be shocked that so many senior staff at West Lancashire Borough Council and Lancashire County Council are on such high salaries.

"The average council tax bill has gone up by more than £900 over the last 20 years and spending has gone through the roof. Disappointingly, many local authorities are now responding to financial reality through further tax rises and reducing services rather than scaling back top pay.

"Despite many in the public sector facing a much-needed pay freeze to help bring the public finances under control, many town hall bosses are continuing to pocket huge remuneration packages, with staggering pay-outs for those leaving their jobs."

A spokesman for Lancashire County Council said: "Senior officers' pay reflects the skills and responsibilities required of these complex roles and ensures that we attract and retain the best people possible for Lancashire. The council employs over 12,000 people in full-time and part-time roles."

A spokesperson for West Lancs council said the authority compares pay rates to similar roles regionally and nationally to ensure that it retains or attracts suitably qualified and skilled officers.

About Dave Tilleray's payment, the spokesperson added: "The Director of Leisure and Wellbeing was made redundant in the 2017/18 financial year and left the authority in January 2018.

"This was one of a number of measures in a council restructure which was the latest move by the council to streamline its management and which saves the authority £267,000 per year. This is part of £10 million in savings the council has made over the last nine years, £535,507 of which has come from management restructures since 2011.

"The figure attributed to the postholder includes basic salary payments of £66,239 and a redundancy payment for loss of office. It also includes pension payments the postholder was entitled to on leaving, including their own contributions, and additional costs to the pension fund incurred as a result of the postholder taking voluntary redundancy, in line with the pension scheme regulations."

Champion LETTERS to the Editor

Time to take fairground operators to task over toxic fumes generated

CHARGING non-compliant vehicles in London's Ultra Low Emissions Zone has already begun and is being rolled out to other cities soon.

You may or may not support its aims.

I went walking through Coronation Park in Ormskirk today enjoying the pleasant sight of children and parents, playing together around and upon the rides of a small fairground there and within the playground adjacent.

Always a pleasure to get some fresh air . . . oh, hang on, what's that smell? I can even taste it!

I made my way out of the park, crossing over County Road (the busy A59) which was rather quieter and void of any smell of fumes.

In this time of attempting to control pollution, I am surprised that the travelling fairground operators have not been taken to task over the exhaust fumes emanating from the rather large and antique-looking generator that provides power to their fairground attractions that the children adore.

I certainly won't be encouraging my grandkids to fill their lungs with harmful toxins from such a strong smell (and taste) of diesel fumes.

Maybe I'll let them play on the nearby A59, where at least the car, bus and lorry emissions are controlled to some extent.

Concerned grandfather, Ormskirk.

We all need to take pride in our environments and not dump rubbish for someone else to clear

WHILST it was good to read in the Champion (April 10) that the council is arranging to organise better services to keep our communities pleasanter and Burscough volunteers are doing well in collecting litter, the problem lies in the people's attitudes who just discard their litter as though Town Green and other communities are just giant litter bins.

I, like others who care about where we live, collect the litter lying around when I can but we shouldn't have to!

We all need to take a pride in our environments which means not throwing our rubbish for someone else to clear.

I am glad the council are recognising the need to help us all feel responsible and proud of where we live.

I have been lucky enough to have had a holiday in The Algarve recently and apart from the warmth and lovely scenery, there was NO litter which made it all so much more enjoyable.

Judy Ingman, Town Green.

Local Plan has not been dropped just postponed

RE: The letter headed 'Now the 30-year Local Plan has been dropped...' (April 3) I think there is confusion over this statement.

The Local Plan hasn't been dropped, it has been postponed until after the election.

Carole Pope, by email.

Saying people should keep their eyes open to avoid horse muck is all well and good but what about the blind and visually impaired?

I MUST congratulate D. P. (Letters, April 3) on being the only human being in history that hasn't ever had to suffer the olfactive indignity of scraping animal waste from the soles of his shoes. Bravo, sir!

His enviable record is not one of serendipity or good fortune. It is based on the single-minded and deliberate endeavour of 'using his eyes'.

Why didn't I think of that? muses anyone that has ever accidentally stepped into something they wish they hadn't.

Much less fortunate than D. P. are the 350,000 people in the UK who are registered blind. So when he has finished patting himself on the back for the monumental act of looking where he walks perhaps D. P. could offer some pearls of eagle-eyed wisdom to those people that do not share his 20/20 vision or to the parents of young children that don't always maintain his peerless levels of concentration?

Regardless of anyone's ability to see, or of the merits of police horses - the assault on the senses provided by large piles of steaming equine excrement in and around the town centre is not exactly the aesthetic bejewelling likely to result in a renaissance of High Street shopping.

Matthew Black, by email.

Technology hub snub is latest example of neglecting the North

WHATEVER happened to the Northern Powerhouse?

Last week the Government announced the locations of 12 'Institutes of Technology' in England, intended to provide high-quality vocational skills training.

None of these is located in the North West of England.

There are no new Institutes of Technology in Lancashire, Cheshire, Merseyside or Cumbria, with only two located north of the West Midlands conurbation - one in Durham and the other in York.

Moreover, the new funding does not replace the money already lost to further and adult education budgets and, when the Government announced this policy some years ago, they said that it would make higher-level technical education available in all areas.

Another false promise. Another missed opportunity.

Yet another example of the 'Neglect of the North'.

Peter Rimmer, Ormskirk.

Knowing your loved ones organ donation wishes should be as common place as knowing their birthday

Your readers may have seen in the news that the organ donation procedure in England is changing.

The introduction of Max and Keira's Law will provide hope for all the people currently waiting for a heart, kidney or other organ transplant.

However, evidence tells us more work will need to be done; now the Government must invest in resources to help the law change become a success.

Families will still play a role in deciding what happens to their loved one's organs, so encouraging people to make their wishes known is essential.

More specialist nurses are also needed as the presence of specialist organ donation nurses dramatically improves consent rates in the UK. If a specialist donation nurse is present to discuss organ donation, families are around three times more likely to consent to their loved one's organs being donated.

It is fantastic this law has been passed, but now we must have a national conversation about organ donation.

That is why we're asking your readers to talk about how they feel about organ donation with their friends and family. Knowing your loved ones organ donation wishes should be as commonplace as knowing their birthday.

Simon Gillespie, Chief Executive of The British Heart Foundation, and Paul Bristow, Interim Chief Executive of Kidney Care UK

Staff and youngsters from Southport's KinderWorld Montessori Day Nursery at the handing over of the cheques for £1,000 and £500 to representatives of Twinkle House and Learning Stars.

Nursery's helping hand for two local charities

TWO West Lancs charities have received a cash boost thanks to the efforts of staff and children at a nursery in neighbouring Southport.

The team at the KinderWorld Montessori Day Nursery in the resort's Bispham Road staged a number of fundraising events realising a grand total of £1,500 which they decided to donate to two worthy causes.

Nursery manager, Emma Louis presented cheques for £1,000 and £500 respectively to Claire Ward and Tina Duffy from Twinkle House in Skelmersdale and Linda Brunt, Linda Hughes and David Cunningham from Learning Stars.

Based in Gorsey Place, East Gillibrands, Twinkle House is a registered charity providing free support sessions for children and young people aged up to 19 years with disabilities and additional needs.

Learning Stars is a group for people with learning disabilities who want to improve their lives through learning, which holds meetings in Skelmersdale, Ormskirk and Southport.

Debbie Lawson and Dianne Gillespie and Kate Tipton-Thomas from Queenscourt with Gordon Hatton, Julia Alty, Sarah Parkinson, Jacqui Howard and Corrine Harris from Hodge Halsall

Solicitors to raise more than £5,000 for Queenscourt

By Danielle Thompson

A SOLICITORS firm say they want to raise £5,000 for Queenscourt Hospice after revealing it as their charity of the year.

Throughout the rest of 2019, the team at Hodge Halsall, on Hoghton Street, Southport, will dedicate a series of events to help raise vital funds for the hospice.

For the past five years, Hodge Halsall has supported Queenscourt Hospice's Make a Will Month, providing a free Will drafting service in exchange for donations to the charity.

The firm also used the hospice's Boxtree Kitchen café to host a special event recently for its Spread the Joy initiative, aimed at reducing social isolation amongst older people in Southport, which raised £700.

The team are hoping to raise over £5,000 for Queenscourt Hospice during 2019 through fundraising events and sponsorship.

The firm has already signed up as an official sponsor of this year's Queenscourt Hospice Star Trekk event, a 10k night walk that has raised a total of £750,000 for the charity since it launched 13 years ago.

Debbie Lawson, Queenscourt Hospice's corporate services director said: "We are enormously grateful to receive this support from Hodge Halsall, a firm that has always gone out of its way to help the Queenscourt Hospice cause.

"Fundraising commitments like this, from the local business community, are a vital source of income for our charity and we hope that others will be encouraged to follow the excellent example that the Hodge Halsall team is setting by choosing Queenscourt Hospice as their charity of the year.

"The money raised by Hodge Halsall will go towards helping us care for patients with far advanced, progressive and incurable illnesses, enabling them to achieve the best possible quality of life at each new stage. It costs more than £400 an hour, 365 days a year to keep Queenscourt running and we rely heavily on donations and community support to do so."

Mark Robinson, managing partner for Hodge Halsall added: "Queenscourt Hospice is a charity that is very close to our hearts. The hospice is a central part of the local community and many of our staff have a personal connection with it.

"By dedicating our charity of the year efforts to raising as much money as possible for Queenscourt, we hope to help the hospice deliver its essential services to the local community for many years to come."

Charity to raise awareness of coeliac disease

WEST Lancashire residents are being urged by a national charity to find out more about the symptoms of coeliac disease - and how sufferers are often misdiagnosed with IBS (irritable bowel syndrome).

Norma McGough, Coeliac UK's director of policy, research and campaigns, said that the time is right to share how the two conditions share similarities as April is IBS Awareness Month, while Coeliac UK's Awareness Week will run from May 13-19.

The charity wants to encourage people with IBS to be tested for coeliac disease, as a quarter of sufferers were previously misdiagnosed with IBS – and an estimated 500,000 people in the UK are living with coeliac disease without knowing it.

Symptoms such as bloating, stomach pains or cramps, diarrhoea or constipation and feeling exhausted are the same for both.

Norma McGough said: "It is essential that awareness of the similarity of the symptoms increases and that GPs adhere to the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence guideline which states that anyone with IBS symptoms should be tested for coeliac disease before a diagnosis is made."

Coeliac disease is not an allergy/intolerance but an autoimmune disease where the body's immune system damages the lining of the small bowel when gluten is eaten. There is no cure or medication, the only treatment is a strict gluten-free diet.

The average time it takes for someone to get a diagnosis is 13 years from the onset of symptoms, by which time, they may already be suffering with added complications caused by the disease. If left untreated, coeliac disease can lead to a number of serious complications.

You really don't know what you have 'till it's gone!

I AM sailing back to New Brighton once again for this week's Dog, at the beginning at least.

Firstly, a confession, I should think I am covered by the Statute of Limitations on this.

In the days when my late brother George and I were old enough to venture forth on our own, if you used any of the ferries from the Pier Head - whether to Birkenhead, Seacombe or New Brighton - you did not pay when boarding but at the end of your journey.

Now whether we worked this out for ourselves, or whether we picked it up from the local scallies, I don't know, but on occasion (and to be fair it was only a very few times), we would board the ferry for New Brighton and enjoy our mini cruise down the Mersey, exploring the boat and visiting the buffet. But on those occasions we had no intentions of actually setting foot in New Brighton at all. For as the ferry pulled on to the pier there, George and I were to be found - or hopefully not - hiding away in some far corner of the vessel.

The procedure was that when all the passengers should have trooped off to pay their fares, a crew member would scour the boat to ensure everybody was gone. So if you could evade this bloke until the folk boarding for the return journey started to embark (which they did very soon) you were safe for another free ride back to Liverpool.

The drawback being of course that though you had been to New Brighton you never actually got to sample the delights on offer there - but you did have a pleasant hour or so cruise under your belt.

Confession time over, I'm not exactly proud of what we did, but I reckon we did very little harm either. Now, of course, you couldn't do that anyway. These days, sensibly, you have to pay before you get aboard and in any case you can no longer get a ferry to New Brighton. That's because the pier there became unsafe, and the then Wallasey Corporation (I think) who then operated the sailings to New Brighton and Seacombe, would not - or could not - stump up the cash to save not only the ferry, but also quite possibly New Brighton's last chance as a holiday destination.

And talking of councils not saving things, with hindsight it would surely have been a good long-term investment for Liverpool Corporation to have seen fit (as it very nearly did) to pay for the new decking necessary to keep the overhead railway in operation. True, its original purpose of providing transport for the dockers to and from work disappeared with the opening of the Seaforth container dock, but the modern Liverpool waterfront, with its tourist and leisure-orientated outlook, would most certainly have benefited from the 'Overhead'. It works in London and they had to start from scratch.

Likewise, it just might have been prudent to retain the old Riverside railway station, which until certainly my living memory could still be used to bring boat trains right up to their passengers' destination. Yes, the long distance liners have become a thing of the past, but Liverpool now boasts a new cruise terminal and perhaps if Riverside station was still operative it could have been used as an added attraction to people boarding for the start of a cruise from the city?

I reckon the old song, You Never Know What You Have 'Till It's Gone, is absolutely correct.

I'm sure everyone has something in which they are interested which they wish they had visited many years ago. Going back to where I started, the Mersey Ferries, one major attraction for me was the ferry Wallasey. She was far older than any of the other boats plying to New Brighton, a genuine steamer in fact. And she owed her longevity largely to the fact that she was the largest vessel Wallasey ferries owned, and at peak hours, or particularly at busy summer weekends, was just the thing to shift the crowds wanting to go to New Brighton.

Both New Brighton's funfair and the ferry Wallasey' are long-gone, though I hear there are plans afoot to revive New Brighton as a holiday destination.

And good luck to that as a proposition.

Free military-themed extravaganza returns

THE next military-themed event at the Heatons Bridge Inn in Scarisbrick is scheduled for the weekend of April 27 and 28.

Military enthusiasts have been meeting at the venue for more than 50 years and the group is now formally recognised as the Mid-Lancs Area of the national Military Vehicle Trust.

The group hosts meetings every six months featuring a display of military vehicles, weapons and equipment.

Heatons Bridge Inn, which is run by Steve and Jacqui Winrow and located on Heatons Bridge Road, has retained a Second World War free-standing brick pillbox which formed part of the Home Guard defence provisions on the grounds.

As previously, it is planned to set up a small Home Guard display inside the pillbox to give visitors a 'feel' of what it might have been like to have been holed up there.

Anyone with a military or military-related vehicle or camp display is welcome to join the group and camp over for the weekend.

The event is also family-friendly and members of the public are invited to visit the displays and chat with the participants. There are no entry fees.

The exhibition runs all day on the Saturday and through to Sunday lunchtime with the group setting up the site on the Friday.

At around 1pm on the Saturday the group will stage a 'road run' for any of the military vehicles that wish to join in. This entails a convoy of military vehicles heading out on to the public roads, typically to Parbold and back, with a stop half-way for refreshments. The run takes about two hours.

Members of the Heatons Bridge Military Vehicle Group at a previous meeting.

To join in the exhibition or for more details contact Paul Connolly on 01704 545786 or Angela Brown on 07774 931 464.

Quirky Quilters create special sensory blankets for care home residents living with dementia

A GROUP of ladies from the Burscough University of the Third Age (U3A) group spent a day making quilts for residents of a care home living with dementia.

Dubbed the Quirky Quilters, the ladies meet fortnightly at the Grove Youth and Community Centre in Station Approach, Burscough get together once a year for a fun day making items for the community.

In the past this has included making quilts for sick babies and children at hospitals throughout the region.

This year they met at Ormskirk District Scouts Headquarters in Lathom where they spent the day making fidget blankets for the benefit of residents of the Dale Park Care Home in Meols Cop Road, Southport.

Fidget blankets, also known as sensory blankets, are made of colourful fabrics with various tactile items attached such as buttons, bows, and zips.

People living with dementia sometimes become restless or develop fidgeting behaviours as the condition develops.

Specially-made fidget items can be a helpful way to relax the person or give them something to do with their hands, and include activity blankets, cushions, aprons, toys, muffs and mitts.

The Quirky Quilters with the blankets they made for Dale Park Care Home.

Songsters join forces to raise funds for Ugandan childcare foundation

COMMUNITY singing groups and local school choirs joined forces to perform at Parbold Village Hall and raise money for a good cause in the process.

Showcasing their talents and celebrating the joy of singing were child and adult choirs from Parbold Sing4Fun, along with choirs from Parbold Douglas CE Academy and Our Lady And All Saints RC Primary School.

The event, entitled Parbold Sings!, raised £350 for Pearl of Africa Children's Choir.

Parbold Sing4Fun, is a not-for-profit community choir set up four years ago. The youth group started three months ago following demand.

The Pearl of Africa Children's Choir raises money for the Molly and Paul Childcare Foundation which provides free education, homes and health care to poor, homeless and orphaned children in Uganda. The choir has performed at various venues in West Lancashire area.

'Huge success'

Co-founder and chairwoman of Parbold Sing4Fun, Gill Louttit, said it was a "tremendous evening" and paid credit to choir leader Jo MacRae without whom it could not have happened. "We were absolutely thrilled with the event and it was a huge success, she said.

Discussions are now ongoing with the UK-based representative of Pearl of Africa to arrange for them to join with the Parbold choirs - the youth choir in particular - for another performance at Parbold Village Hall later in the year.

Both Parbold Sing4Fun groups meet every Monday evening at Our Lady And All Saints RC Primary School, Brandreth Drive, Parbold. For more information go to their website at www.parboldsing4fun.com or email parboldsing4fun@gmail.com.

Nursery's 'eggs-ellent' response to company's Easter appeal on behalf of children's hospices!

YOUNGSTERS at a local nursery have collected Easter eggs for less-fortunate children.

After spotting the annual appeal by MLS Independent Funeral Directors in the Champion, staff at Portico Kindergarten decided to get on board and with help of their young charges and their families - along with contributions from the Co-op store in Aughton, and Morrisons, Ormskirk - they collected 60 chocolate Easter eggs for the appeal.

Jane Waterson, manager of the nursery in Town Green Lane, Aughton, said: "The children have shown kindness by speaking to their parents and asking them to give them an Easter egg to donate."

The eggs will be donated to Claire House Children's Hospice in Wirral and Zoe's Place Baby Hospice in Liverpool.

Clare House helps seriously and terminally ill children by creating wonderful experiences aimed at bringing back a sense of normality and providing specialist nursing care and emotional support for families.

Zoe's Place provides palliative, respite and end-of-life care for babies and infants aged up to five years suffering from life-limiting or life-threatening conditions.

Primary school open day

BURSCOUGH Village Primary School held an open day for the local community to learn about its early years provision and view its refurbished facilities.

Business support officer for the school in Colburne Close, Veronica Bennett, said: "Children were able to play in the nursery indoor and outdoor classrooms and join in with activities as well as inspecting our 'bug hotel'. Anyone requiring details about our nursery can call the school office on 01704 895403 or call in and see us."

Downholland Haskayne Primary School pupils celebrate topping the times tables league.

Primary pupils 'rock' at their times tables!

PUPILS at a West Lancashire school celebrated coming top of a local league for doing their times tables with a party.

Times Table Rock Stars is an initiative involving more than 14,000 schools worldwide and is designed to help children master their times tables.

It features a sequenced programme of daily times tables practice, and is available either on paper or online. Participating schools can also compete in a Times Tables Rock Star League, with pupils getting an avatar (a digital character that represents them) when they take part online.

Youngsters from Downholland Haskayne CE Primary threw a party when their KS2 class went top of the league against local schools.

Barbara Winrow, administration officer from the school, said: "Our competitive spirit has seen our children shoot to the top of the leader board for nearby schools who are taking part in the Times Tables Rock Stars League.

"And the children and staff celebrated in style with a party and by dressing up as their rock star avatar for the day!"

Martin Mere news

New Pond Zone opens to inspire next generation of conservationists

Visitors to WWT Martin Mere will now be able to get up close to lots of aquatic life as our brand new £250,000 Pond Zone has officially opened. The new attraction, generously supported by players of People's Postcode Lottery through Postcode Animal Trust and other funders, is made up of four raised-dipping ponds and an existing natural pond. The raised dipping ponds have been built with insects in mind - they're made out of more natural materials, are much larger than the old, concrete ponds on site and all have aquatic plants. Alongside the existing natural pond at ground level and a netted cover preventing birds from accessing the water, it's hoped that the new ponds will encourage a wider range of insects and small amphibians such as newts and frogs.

With latest research showing that over 40% of the world's insect species may become extinct in the next few decades, it's more important than ever to try and protect existing insect species and encourage others to thrive. Here at Martin Mere, we're hopeful that our new Pond Zone will do just that. As well as encouraging insects, the Pond Zone will be used to inspire the next generation of conservationists.

A new timber classroom features a large teaching space for school visits, technical equipment to enhance the pond dipping experience, magnetic pond profiles on the walls for teaching and screens to project findings. Visitors to the centre during weekends and half term will also be able to get involved in pond dipping. All the equipment needed to uncover a world of incredible underwater life will be available; nets, trays, magnifying glasses, identity cards and our friendly Learning Team will be on hand to help. Centre Manage Nick Brooks said:

"Pond dipping is one of the favourite activities that families enjoy at Martin Mere. They get their net and delve into what is now artificial concrete ponds to see what creatures they can find, this new development will allow families to pond dip in a natural setting and it is going to be a great new attraction for us."

For further information about the new Pond Zone, visit wwt.org.uk/martin-mere.

Ormskirk Bowling Club, which has been up and running for just over three years, is opening its doors to anyone who would like to 'have a go' on its fantastic new artificial and grass greens.

The club, located behind Ormskirk Cricket Club, off Altys Lane, is holding free taster sessions on Thursdays, April 18 and 25, starting at 7pm. You can attend one or both sessions and no booking is necessary. No special equipment is needed - all you need is a pair of trainers to play in. Further coaching will be held for anyone who gets a taste for the sport.

All ages are welcome to attend on these dates but the club does hold bowling sessions specifically aimed at youngsters aged between seven and 16 years on Thursdays from 6pm. Young people are welcome to go along and have a go then and the first session is free.

Club coach, Ian Gill, said: "We have already had many beginners of all ages join our club and, as we are a new club, it is a fantastic way to meet new people and enjoy a new sport.

"You can bring the whole family along and have a go - most people who play always say they wish they had taken it up at a younger age."

For further details contact Ian on 07500 918 081.

Ormskirk Bowling Club is offering free taster sessions for beginners.

Bishop of Blackburn swaps church for a classroom to pass on wisdom to pupils

Report by Henry James

BISHOP Julian Henderson of Blackburn came to Banks St Stephens CE Primary School to speak with pupils about his life.

He spoke to Year 6 about his life and his religion, and in turn the children asked many questions and gave the bishop some food for thought!

Staff say the children enjoyed their lesson finding out what it is like to be a Bishop.

Bishop Julian even spoke to them about his family and his love of football.

One child said: "We were all won over with Bishop Julian's warm and generous personality and would like him to visit us again."

Meanwhile for World Book Day 2019, the children at Banks St Stephens held a day based around the mystery of their missing librarian.

They had to visit a crime scene in the school library and try and work out who was responsible.

Year 2 received a ransom letter from 'The Big Bad Wolf', who said that if the whole school were able to improve reading across school then Mrs Harland-Say would be released.

Each class was given a task such as designing and implementing a book swap, organising and running a book club and making book marks for the library.

Luckily the children completed all of their challenges before the end of the school day and Mrs Harland-Say was saved!

A spokesman for the school said: "Everyone had such a wonderful day which was finished with an evening bed time stories session where children came back to school in their pyjamas with their parents and everyone read bedtime stories together."

Also the school organised activities to support Comic Relief.

The School Council asked everyone to come to school wearing something red and if possible to wear their red noses too.

They also organised joke telling, design a red nose, make joke posters and hold a "stand up comedy" time in class.

Everyone joined in, even the teachers and raised lots of money for this worthy cause.

Happy Easter

Easter is an enjoyable time spent with family and friends when, through tradition, chocolate eggs are shared in abundance.
However for many, Easter is the celebration of Jesus Christ's resurrection after His crucifixion to the cross. There are many celebrations planned for the Easter period in our region and here we have a selection of Churches where there is lots happening, from services to interesting speakers. Take a look below and enjoy your Easter period (and your eggs) to the full.

Eco-motorist blasts 'unhelpful' council

Report by Kenny Parker

A MAN who claims he is 'doing his bit' for the environment by driving an eco-friendly car as well as providing a community parking area, has accused West Lancs Council of being "unethical" and "unhelpful."

Giovanni Lupaldi, of Whalley Drive, Aughton, has created the parking area and an electric charging point outside his home in Whalley Drive, Aughton but says it has cost him £5,000 and taken two years - even though the actual building work only took two days!

And he believes the local authority should have been more helpful as he is providing five other car parking spaces for the local community.

However the council says it has helped Mr Lupaldi to develop the plans for the parking spaces while also complying with regulations.

Mr Lupaldi, who has his own water and energy consultancy business, applied to have the car park built as there is no road directly outside of his house and he is not allowed to park on the grass to charge his car from home. He and his wife have been charging their car at the council offices in Ormskirk two-and-a-half miles away often cycling back late at night after leaving it on charge.

Giovanni Lupaldi at his new electric car charging point.

After 18 months of negotiations to finally get planning permission, he accused the authority of making it difficult for him by insisting that he use a contractor with £10m insurance liability.

He claimed finding a contractor willing to take on a relatively small job for such a large liability proved problematic, while those recommended by the council were too expensive.

And now that the car parking area is finally complete he says that a request for the council to 'drop' the kerb has been refused, even though he offered to pay for it to be done.

He said: "West Lancs Council has been no help at all. We have spent £5,000 on something that took two years to get approval and just two days to get built!

"I have had to pay for everything and even my effort to get a little help at the very last part of the process has been rejected.

"The council has acted lawfully, I have no complaints about that, but it says a lot about how it deals with these kind of situations. Legal but not very ethical in my opinion."

A spokesperson for West Lancs Council commented: "To assist Mr Lupaldi, the council produced plans for the parking area, with the final layout being subject to planning approval, of which Mr Lupaldi was always aware.

"Mr Lupaldi was granted planning approval and issued with a licence agreement to undertake the work. The conditions of the licence agreement required that any contractors appointed by Mr Lupaldi would need to have public liability insurance cover of £10m in line with current council requirements.

"With regard to the issue of the dropped kerb, this was identified at the time of the planning application and forms part of the overall work. As such, Mr Lupaldi is responsible for organising the dropping of the kerb so the car park area can be safely accessed.

"He should liaise with the county council on this matter as that body is the highways authority for West Lancashire."

Animal sanctuary seeks homes for cats with health problems

Report by Danielle Thompson

STAFF at a West Lancs animal charity are appealing for loving homes for some of their furry friends with lifelong health problems.

The Woodlands Animal Sanctuary in Sandy Lane, Holmeswood, takes in sick, unwanted and abandoned animals, specialising in cats and hedgehogs.

Currently they have two pairs of cats with permanent health conditions and they are looking for families willing to give them a permanent home.

When lifelong medication is required, the charity will continue to pay for this to alleviate financial pressure on families adopting the cats.

In addition, all cats available for re-homing are up-to-date with worming and de-flea treatments and are vaccinated, microchipped and neutered.

The four cats the sanctuary is seeking to re-home will have their vet bills paid for life and will be treated at Rufford Veterinary Group.

The first pair are nine-year-old 'brothers' Charlie and Elvis. Charlie is a semi long-haired tabby and white who is described as 'quiet' and needs regular grooming because of his long coat.

Elvis is more adventurous and likes getting into mischief.

Both have slight heart murmurs and although they don't currently require any medication they do need close monitoring and it's likely they will need (free) medication in the future.

The second pair are four-year-old 'sisters' Cookie and Cleo.

Cleo, who is black and white, was diagnosed with a quite severe heart murmur in January for which she is on medication that she will need for the rest of her life.

Above: Charlie and Elvis. Below: Cookie and Cleo.

She will also need regular close monitoring as the medication may need adapting in the future and due to the severity of her condition staff at Woodlands are unable to be sure of her expected life span.

She is prone to over-grooming and carers should also keep an eye on this.

Cookie is all-black, loves attention and has a very affectionate nature. She has no additional needs.

Anyone who thinks they could welcome into their home either of these pairs of cats is asked to contact Woodlands Animal Sanctuary by phoning 01704 823293.

Show was a 'moving interpretation of a classic musical'

Review by Henry James

SONG presented West Side Story at The Atkinson in Southport as their 40th Anniversary Show.

The musical, which is inspired by Romeo and Juliet, was first staged on Broadway in 1957, and is as relevant today with the many issues highlighted in it, such as knife crime and gang culture, still topical.

This was an ambitious production to bring to the stage with its complex score and challenging choreography, but the youngsters from SONG were up to the task and their performances really delivered.

Of particular note was Louis Millington as Maria who has a terrific singing voice. Ryan Harrison was assured as Tony. Anita (Charlie Jasmine Edge) stood out as well and had a big part to play in the second half. She has to sing the famous song Somewhere.

The leaders of the two gangs, The Jets and The Sharks, brought the right amount of swagger to the roles. Riff was played by Ryan Gallagher and Bernardo by Gabe Cardeita.

The company, who were obviously enjoying being in the show, came together well too under the direction of Karen Edge in their scenes, including Dance At The Gym, and The Rumble.

Karen, who is an ex-member of SONG, was also in the creative team for the company's successful 2017 production The Addams Family.

She was joined by Victoria Harrocks as the choreographer. Jerome Robbins original choreography is a key element of the show and SONG's presentation did it justice.

West Side Story is a terrific score and in it are the famous songs America, Tonight and Somewhere. The orchestra, under the supervision of Charles Moss, provided a perfect accompaniment to the action.

This was a moving interpretation of a classic musical. 9/10

You Just Never Know was 'enjoyed by a packed audience'

Review by Ron Ellis

'You Just Never Know' By Liz Dobson
The Harry Whitehouse Players
Fisher Hall, Formby

MARK Hogben and Jill Williams played Geoff and Mo, a couple who are having breakfast in their home before Geoff sets off for work. He is an IT expert at the Ministry of Defence and Mo works there part-time.

It is shortly to be their fifth wedding anniversary and Mo has suggested to Geoff they have a quiet meal together to celebrate but, after he has left for work, her best friend and neighbour, Claire (Valerie Hogben) turns up for a gossip and Mo tells her she is actually planning a big surprise for Geoff, a party at the Imperial Hotel with all their friends invited, no expense spared.

The second act takes place on the night of the party as Mo and Claire, all dressed up to the nines, wait impatiently for Geoff to come home from work when something alarming happens…

Produced and directed by Susan Birchall and Jim Crawford, this was an intriguing mystery which brought a totally surprise ending no one would have envisaged.

As a bonus to the evening's entertainment, Dorothy Sanders opened the proceedings by performing a delightful rendition of Joyce Grenfell's famous 'nursery school' monologue, 'It's Time to go Home'.

All in all, an excellent evening's entertainment, well-acted by all the cast and enjoyed by a packed audience.

Star Rating: 7 out of 10. Better than Midsomer Murders

Popular production is coming to Empire theatre

BILL Kenwright's production of Ghost the musical is on a UK Tour and is coming to the Liverpool Empire from Tuesday, April 23 to Saturday, April 27.

It is inspired by the movie, and this reimagining has an expanded book, new music and original staging.

Walking back to their apartment late one night a tragic encounter sees Sam murdered and his beloved wife Molly alone, in despair and utterly lost. But with the help of a phony storefront psychic Sam, trapped between this world and the next, tries to communicate with Molly in the hope of saving her from grave danger…

The movie Ghost, which stars the late Patrick Swayze, Demi Moore and Whoopi Goldberg was the highest grossing film of 1990. Screenwriter Bruce Joel Rubin won an Oscar for his work on the film and he adapted his screenplay for this musical.

The movie and the musical feature The Righteous Brothers' Unchained Melody alongside songs co-written by Eurythmics' Dave Stewart.

The show had its world premiere at the Manchester Opera House on March 28, 2011 and ran until May 14 of the same year. It starred former Coronation Street star Richard Fleeshman as Sam Wheat and Cassie Levy as Molly Jensen. The show went on to have runs on the West End and Broadway.

Former EastEnders star appearing in Sweeney Todd

NICK Bagnall's anarchic production of the musical Sweeney Todd has opened at the Liverpool Everyman.

Former EastEnders star Kacey Ainsworth is playing the role of Mrs Lovett. Known for her performance as Little Mo in the soap. Kacey has also appeared in her fourth series of the ITV detective drama Grantchester. This is Kacey's first production at the Everyman.

Liam Tobin plays Sweeney Todd in the production.

The show will be performed at the Everyman until Saturday, May 18.

Nick Bagnall, associate director at Everyman & Playhouse, said: "I'm really excited to be working with this group of actors for Sweeney Todd."

Champion MOTORS

NEWS DESK · 01704 392 400

Studio-based school of motoring television is finally on its way out...

The final episode of The Grand Tour focused on the legacy of the Ford Mondeo

NEVER has the sale of a second-hand tent seemed quite so emotional. If you haven't watched the last episode of The Grand Tour yet (and you don't mind forking out for Amazon Prime) then you might want to put your copy of The Champion down for an hour, watch it and then come back, because it's really worth catching up with. In a nutshell, the motoring telly giant that was the Clarkson/Hammond/May trio came to an end – except it sort of didn't.

After an extended piece bemoaning the Ford Mondeo's steady slide from the top of the car sales charts a genuinely emotional Jeremy announced that there would be no shows involving him taking the mickey out of the latest motors alongside his two mates in front of a studio audience, either for The Grand Tour or back on Top Gear.

An extended montage of what they'd been up to on both shows followed – including everything from Richard Hammond's many crashes to the Reliant Robin space shuttle – duly followed, giving the trio's work the sort of send off a certain incident involving cold meat and a late night at a hotel a couple of years ago denied them.

The only snag is that it was all much ado about nothing, because the three of them then went on to say they are going to carry on working together on The Grand Tour, albeit in a new format that focuses solely on their big globe-trotting adventures. Read between the lines, though, and I reckon that there's a wider truth; that the studio-based school of motoring telly they pioneered is finally on the way out.

I've written before that a lot of Top Gear now feels tired trying to hang on to elements popularised more than 15 years ago and that I've already predicted the next series, fronted by two celebs who aren't practised motoring writers, is going to be awful.

Which is a shame, because the one that's just finished was one of the best yet, and that includes comparing it to ones presented by the old trio.

But in a streaming-obsessed world where you can watch everything on demand simply rocking up in an old aircraft hanger and then packing in an audience around a few strategically-parked supercars just seems a bit, well, to be honest, a bit old hat now.

I'll happily predict that Top Gear will eventually follow suit and go for a rethink in a few years' time, and might even be parked up altogether.

Saying that about a car show that I've grown up with, from crackly early Nineties episodes of a fuzzy-haired Clarkson moaning about mid-sized Vauxhalls to Chris Harris doing balletic mid-corner routines in McLarens, is a bitter pill to swallow, but I also loved Top of the Pops and Tomorrow's World, and the world moved on from both of those too.

Personally, my own prediction is that the massive motoring juggernauts that are Top Gear and The Grand Tour won't be replaced by something equally big but several slicker, smaller shows, covering exactly what you want, when you want. Petrolhead paradise on demand.

My vote's with a show packed with old TVRs and Morgans.

I could be completely wrong of course.

Maybe no-one wants to buy a secondhand tent and, stuck with it, they'll have a rethink of the rethink…

New versions of the Nissan X-Trail are on their way to the UK

New turbodiesel off-roader is out

NISSAN'S X-TRAIL is now available with two all-new engines. The five-door off-roader is being offered with a 1.7-litre turbodiesel engine, which is good for 150bhp and will be available on the car in two-wheel-drive or four-wheel-drive form. There's also a new 1.3-litre petrol engine available, which has more power but less torque than the diesel model, and comes in two-wheel-drive form only. Go to www.nissan.co.uk for more information on the X-Trail range.

Linnets suffer narrow defeat in final home game of season

Burscough 0
Congleton Town 1

BURSCOUGH slumped to their third 1-0 defeat in four league games at Victoria Park after an ill-tempered contest saw both sides end the match with ten men.

A 37th minute goal was enough to give third in the North West Counties Premier Division table Congleton victory at Burscough's last home game of the season.

Congleton have a local connection in manager Brian Pritchard, who around a quarter of a century ago made his name on the local stage in the Ormskirk Sunday League for Coach & Horses.

The game was scrappy and the fluidity of play was not helped by a poor surface and it was Burscough who looked the most likely to get the early breakthrough, Jordan Lorde shooting wide before Chad Whyte had an attempt cleared off the Congleton goal-line.

The pattern was set, Burscough attacking and Congleton hitting them on the counterattack.

Halfway through the half Terry Cummings had a great opportunity for Burscough breaking clear when he was faced with away goalkeeper Rob Cooke but his finish was poor and the chance was gone.

Congleton lost forward Danny Cope on the half-hour but they had an experienced replacement in Steve Foster.

Foster announced his arrival in the action by setting up the only goal of the game on 37 minutes, presenting midfielder Dean Warburton with his eighth goal of the season. Warburton's quality finish giving Burscough goalkeeper Ben Fletcher no chance.

As the interval beckoned Burscough went onto the offensive again but Congleton held firm despite a couple of good deliveries into the penalty area.

In the opening period after the restart Danny Brady went close with a free-kick but generally defences were getting on top.

Play took on a nasty turn in the 54th minute. Will Doherty got into a tussle for the ball with Warburton and after what appeared to be an elbow, Doherty went to ground.

He rose to his feet and struck Warburton and there was then a coming together of players with both teams involved. After referee Alan Bennett had restored peace he showed Doherty and Warburton red cards and they will no doubt miss the start of next season due to suspension.

Congleton have conceded less goals than anyone else in the North West Counties Premier Division this season (33) and it was clear why as they made things very difficult for Burscough for the rest of the afternoon.

Billy Hasler-Cregg twice went near when Congleton broke as Burscough pressed forward, while for the Linnets Whyte was again frustrated.

In the last moments Burscough went desperately close to equalising, Brady went onto the attack and his shot cannoned off the post.

Although Burscough have lost a couple of games recently they have played well and have been a little unlucky to lose, this however wasn't one of them.

They have three games left, all away from home, all are winnable and nine points would give them a well deserved finishing spot in the top half of the table.

Skem battle bravely but come up short against play-off contenders

Report by Neil Leatherbarrow

Colne 1
Skelmersdale United 0

SKELMERSDALE United could hold their heads up high despite a narrow defeart after competing well with promotion chasing Colne.

The fateful goal arrived with just 15 minutes left on the clock and it was a valiant effort by Paul McNally men in an against the odds situation.

Joel Douglas was one of three changes to the Skem team from Saturday's game against Market Drayton and he went close twice in the opening exchanges, once having a header saved by Colne's former Liverpool keeper Hakan Burton, then putting a shot wide.

Skelmersdale were having the better of it for a while and Burton again had to be sharp to thwart Liam Wood on 17 minutes. The hosts looked most threatening from wide positions and a series of crosses didn't get telling touches.

Skelmersdale then had a string of corners but down the other end their goalkeeper Ryan Kirkman was called into action saving at Simon Nangle's feet.

When the half-time whistle went Skelmersdale were at least good value for their share of the points with the score sheet blank.

Colne needed the points as much as Skelmersdale did and went onto the offensive after the break, Tommy Lent putting in a vital saving header for Skem before Reece Webb-Foster put a shot over the Skelmersdale crossbar.

Colne continued to press, but Ryan Kirkman was dealing well with the pressure and Skem held firm and might have scored themselves via Matt Corness.

When the Colne winner came 15 minutes from time there was an element of luck about it.

Initially a free-kick was only partially cleared and substitute Waqas Azam ran at the Skem defence before shooting, the ball deflected straight to Oliver Wood and the six foot plus centre-forward put it low into the Skem net.

Colne went for the second goal as Skelmersdale tired in the latter stages but again Kirkman was in top form.

If Skelmersdale were upset to lose having played so well, the situation was exacerbated in added time when forward John Keatley was sent off for a second yellow card.

McNally's side set to host league leaders

IT is bottom at home to top on Saturday at Volair Park Prescot, as Paul McNally's Skelmersdale United team take on Evo-Stik Division One West league leaders Atherton Collieries.

The Skem supporters will not be wanting a repeat performance, after the Colliers beat Skem 9-1 in the game at Alder Street in September.

Skelmersdale do need to win if they are to effectively avoid relegation on the day, they are six points behind the safety mark of Kendal Town with only three games left, but significantly are 26 goals behind on goal difference too.

Atherton will not be able to do Skem any favours either, although top, with Radcliffe snapping at their heels they must win to maintain their league title and promotion hopes.

Burscough take on bottom of the league on Saturday as they travel to play already relegated Abbey Hey, but they will need to go to East Manchester with their shooting boots.

Manager Terry Green has done a fine job of tightening the Linnets up at the back since his arrival in Autumn, but they are not scoring as many goals as they did and two in their last four games does require improvement.

It could be said that a game against a team that has conceded 107 goals already this season is a good place to get their shooting eye back in.

Skelmersdale also play at Volair Park again on Bank Holiday Monday when they are away to Prescot Cables, 3pm kick off.

It will be an interesting one for Skem fans as Prescot are managed by Tommy Lawson's long time assistant Brian Richardson, who has a number of former Skem players in his side, including Chris Almond, Aaron Turner and Valtar Fernandes.

Sadly it could also bring the curtain down on Skem's fight to stay up.

Burscough play on Wednesday, April 24 when they play away to Litherland Remyca, kick off 7.45pm.
